EDUCATION

Nike, Inc.

Jordan Fundamentals Program to Support Public School Teachers

Program: The Jordan Fundamentals Grant Program was established in 1999 to recognize outstanding teaching and instructional creativity in public secondary schools that serve economically disadvantaged students. The program is presented by the Jordan brand, a division of Nike, Inc., and administered by Scholarship Management Services, a department of Citizens' Scholarship Foundation of America, Inc. The program awards funding to teachers or paraprofessionals who work with students in grades six through twelve in a U.S. public school. Applicants should demonstrate instructional creativity and exemplify high learning expectations for economically disadvantaged students. At least 40 percent of the student population at the applicant's school must be eligible for the free or reduced school lunch program. Applicants must develop an original lesson plan or thematic unit. Unique teaching methods and projects are encouraged. Grants can be applied to resource materials, supplies, equipment, transportation, or other costs related to field trips.

Deadline: June 15, 2003.

Funds: Number of awards: 400.
Average grant size: $2,500.

Eligible: Teachers or paraprofessional who work with students in grades six through twelve in a U.S. public school.

Info: Jordan Fundamentals Grant Program, Scholarship Management Services, CSFA, 1505 Riverview Road, P.O. Box 297, St. Peter MN 56082, Phone: (507) 931-1682, Email: jordanfundamentals@csfa.org, Link: <http://www.nike.com/nikebiz/nikebiz.jhtml?page=26&item=jordan>

The Sherman Fairchild Foundation, Inc

Grant Programs

Program: The Sherman Fairchild Foundation, Inc. incorporated in New York State in 1955. It is an independent foundation largely funded by May and Sherman Fairchild. The foundation focuses its giving activities in higher education, fine arts (visual arts and performance arts), cultural institutions and will consider providing assistance to medical research and social welfare/human services programs/projects. There is an emphasis on Mid-Atlantic and New England States.

Funds: Total funds available: $10 million.
Average grant size: $25,000-$50,000.

Deadline: None.

- Eligible: The foundation has no formal application form or proposal format. Applicants should send to the foundation a one or two-page letter explaining the proposal. The officers of the foundation meet periodically throughout the year to review applications.

HEALTH

The Howard Hughes Medical Institute NIH Program for Medical Students/Cloister program

- Program: The Howard Hughes Medical Institute annually provides support through the HHMI-NIH Research Scholars Program, also known as the Cloister Program, to give outstanding students at U.S. medical schools the opportunity to receive research training at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Maryland. Research Scholars in the HHMI-NIH program spend nine months to a year on the NIH campus conducting basic, translational, or applied biomedical research under the direct mentorship of senior NIH research scientists. HHMI provides the administration and funding for the program, including the salaries and benefits for the Research Scholars; NIH provides advisors, mentors, laboratory space, and equipment and supplies for laboratory work.
- Deadline: January 10, 2003.
- Funds:
- ✓ Annual salary of $17,800.
 - ✓ Fully paid medical insurance.
 - ✓ Moving expense reimbursement.
 - ✓ Subsidized, furnished, on-campus housing.
 - ✓ Housing for couples and families is also available.
 - ✓ Allowance for conference travel, related books and courses.
- Eligible: A student must be in good standing at a medical or dental school in the United States or Puerto Rico and must receive permission from the school to participate in the program. The school does not have to be a major academic medical center or a research-oriented school. Prior research experience may be advantageous but is not required. The applicant must also be authorized to work in the U.S. during the entire period of time he or she would be employed as a Research Scholar. Those who are enrolled in an M.D./Ph.D. program or who already have an M.D. degree or a Ph.D. in one of the natural sciences are not eligible to apply.
- Info: HHMI-NIH Research Scholars Program, 1 Cloister Court, Bethesda, MD 20814-1460, Phone: (800) 424-9924, Email: hweb@hhmi.org, Link: www.hhmi.org/research/cloister

Kaiser Family Foundation

Media Fellowship Program/Media Mini-Fellowships in Health/Media Internships in Urban Health Reporting

- Program:
- ✓ The Kaiser Media Fellowships Program will award up to six fellowships to print, television, and radio journalists interested in health policy, health financing, and public health. The aim of the program is to provide journalists with a highly flexible range of opportunities to pursue individual projects combined with group briefings and site visits on a wide range of health and social-policy issues. The program offers an annual stipend of $55,000 (prorated for length of the actual fellowship). Travel for research purposes is also available. Any journalist, editor, or producer specializing in health reporting is eligible to apply. Applicants must be U.S. citizens and/or work for an accredited U.S. media organization.
 - ✓ The Kaiser Media Mini-Fellowships in Health will award up to ten mini-fellowships to print, radio, and television journalists to research and report on HIV/AIDS issues in the United States or overseas. The purpose is to encourage in-depth reporting on the health, social, economic, political, and cultural implications of the global HIV/AIDS epidemic, and on policies and programs to address HIV/AIDS. The program will provide journalists with travel and research support to complete a specific project of their choice for publication or broadcast. Typically, grants will be up to $10,000 for print and radio projects, and up to $20,000 for television projects. Priority will be given to projects otherwise unlikely to be undertaken or completed, focusing on issues that have not been reported or are under-reported and which have a high likelihood of being published/aired and of reaching a mass audience. To be eligible, journalists must be U.S. citizens and/or work for a U.S. accredited news organization.
 - ✓ The Kaiser Media Internships in Urban Health Reporting for 2003 is an internship program for minority journalists interested in specializing in urban public health reporting. The program provides an initial week-long briefing on urban public health issues and health reporting at the National Press Club in Washington, D.C. Interns are then based for ten weeks at their newspaper/TV station, typically under the direction of the health or metro editor/news director, where they report on health issues. The program ends with a three-day meeting and site visits in Boston. Interns receive a twelve-week stipend and travel expenses. Applicants must be U.S. citizens or permanent residents in order to apply.
- Deadline:
- ✓ Media Fellowship Program: March 7, 2003.
 - ✓ Media Mini-Fellowships in Health: December 2, 2002.
 - ✓ Media Internships in Urban Health Reporting: Print applicants-December 2, 2002. Broadcast applicants-January 10, 2003.

Funds: See above.
Eligible: See above.

JUSTICE

Department of Health and Human Services/Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration

Young Offender Reentry Program

Program: The Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA), Center for Substance Abuse Treatment (CSAT), is seeking applications for Fiscal Year 2003 funds to expand and/or enhance substance abuse treatment and related reentry services in agencies currently providing supervision of and services to sentenced juvenile and young adult offenders returning to the community from incarceration for criminal/juvenile offenses. Applicants are expected to form stakeholder partnerships that will plan, develop and provide community-based substance abuse treatment and related reentry services for the targeted populations. Because reentry transition must begin in the correctional or juvenile facility before release, funding may be used for limited activities in institutional correctional settings in addition to the expected community-based services.

Funds: Total funds available: $6 million
Number of wards: 12-14 awards will be made.
Average grant size: $300,000 to $500,000.

Deadline: Jan. 17, 2003

Eligible: Public and domestic private non-profit entities may apply. State and local governments, courts, community-based organizations and faith-based organizations.

MISCELLANEOUS

Allstate Foundation

Grants to Non-Profits

Program: The Allstate Foundation will issue program grants to nonprofit organizations that are related to tolerance, diversity and inclusion; safe and vital communities; and economic empowerment. The Foundation has developed focus areas to target contributions that align with The Allstate Corporation's goals.

Tolerance, Inclusion and Diversity

For more information about the Funding Update, contact Jake Sullivan; (617) 635-3817, or join the Funding Update by emailing join-funding_update@listserv.cityofboston.gov. Also access the Funding Update on the City of Boston's webpage: <http://www.cityofboston.com/intergovernmental/> Promoting tolerance, inclusion and diversity means recognizing and valuing people of varied backgrounds, including ethnicity, gender, physical challenges, age and lifestyle. Programs should focus on: Teaching Tolerance to Youth; Alleviating Discrimination; Reducing Hate Crimes.

Safe and Vital Communities

To foster safe and vital communities where people want to live, work and raise their families. It's economically strong, crime-free, and residents feel secure in their homes. Residents feel a sense of belonging and commitment. Programs should focus on: Catastrophe Response & Mitigation; School Anti-Violence; Revitalization of Communities.

Economic Empowerment

Economic empowerment means enabling individuals and families to attain economic self-reliance and achieve financial security. Programs should focus on: Financial and Insurance Education; Economic Literacy; Entrepreneurial/Small Business Skill Development Initiatives for Women.

Funds: Grants range $1,000 to $10,000.

Deadline: See RFR.

Eligible: Non-profits.

TECHNOLOGY

Tech Museum of Innovation

Tech Awards

Program: The program honors innovators from around the world who are applying technology to improve the human condition in the categories of education, equality, environment, health, and economic development. Each year, candidates are nominated and then invited to submit applications. At the awards gala each November, five laureates in each category are honored and cash prizes are awarded. The Tech Museum encourages and solicits nominations from anyone who can identify a worthy candidate, including self-nominations. The purpose of The Tech Awards program is to inspire future scientists, technologists, and dreamers to harness the incredible power and promise of technology to solve the challenges that confront us at the dawn of the 21st Century.

Deadline: May 2, 2003.

Funds: Each year twenty-five Laureates are honored at the Awards Gala (5 per category), where one winner from each category is awarded a $50,000 cash prize.

Eligible: Individuals, for-profit companies, and not-for-profit organizations.
