

EMTs deliver baby on way to hospital

Updated: Wednesday, 10 Aug 2011, 6:53 AM EDT

Published : Tuesday, 09 Aug 2011, 7:36 PM EDT

(FOX25 / MyFoxBoston.com) - It wasn't the way they had planned, but the result was just as wonderful.

A local couple was on their way to the hospital when their baby decided it couldn't wait any longer to be born.

They were driving on Route 93 North in Dorchester when they called 911.

Two Boston EMT's arrived to help. They took the pregnant mother into the ambulance and starting driving to the hospital.

But the baby was coming fast, and a few minutes into the ride, the two EMTs delivered a healthy baby girl.

The EMTs hope to deliver a pink onesie to the family that says "delivered by Boston EMS."

Mom and baby were sent to Brigham and Women's Hospital and are doing well.