CHILDREN AND FAMILIES

U.S. Department of Health and Human Services

Administration for Children and Families

Administration on Children, Youth, and Families, Children's Bureau

Demonstration Projects that Improve Child Well-Being by Fostering Healthy Marriages within Underserved Communities

Program: The Administration for Children and Families, Children's Bureau, seeks proposals that improve child well-being by removing barriers and strengthening family formation and healthy marriage in underserved communities. The Children's Bureau believes that by designing strategies to target funding for healthy marriage activities to community-based agencies in underserved communities where high rates of child protection and foster care resources are used, child well-being may be improved and the rate of children of color in foster care could be reduced. Projects will explore and remove barriers to forming lasting families and healthy marriages as a means to promote the well-being of children and families who are at risk of entering, or are already in the child welfare system. Projects also will explore what particular services, delivery, and outreach efforts designed to support the formation and stability of healthy marriages are most effective at helping children and families in targeted communities.

- Program: The mission of the Hyams Foundation is to increase economic and social justice and power within low-income communities in Boston and Chelsea, Massachusetts. The foundation's current grant making guidelines seek to draw together the foundation's work in a more comprehensive way by focusing on the following four community priorities or outcomes:
- § Increased civic engagement, with a special focus on immigrant communities;
  - § More affordable housing, especially for very low-income families;
  - § Increased family economic self-sufficiency; and
  - § Enhanced opportunities for low-income teens.
- The foundation will make operating, program and project, technical assistance, and a limited number of capital grants to community-based organizations. The Hyams Foundation also will continue to promote organizational diversity throughout all of its grant making areas. The foundation believes that well-functioning organizations that also have diverse boards and staff are more effective in serving and empowering Boston and Chelsea's diverse communities. It also believes that identifying issues of racial and ethnic discrimination and disadvantage, and drawing increased attention to them, will increase the extent to which they are addressed by public officials, private funders, and other decision-makers. The foundation will continue to use board and staff diversity as an important funding criterion and will look for other opportunities to promote diversity within the broader community. The Hyams Foundation accepts the Associated Grant Makers common proposal format.
