The Bay Village community advisors hereby transmit to the Boston Landmarks Commission a report on the establishment of the Bay Village area as an Historic District. The work of this group was officially initiated in 1979 when the Bay Village Association, Inc. requested of the Mayor and the Boston Landmarks Commission that the area be considered an historic district under Chapter 40C, General Laws, and Chapter 772, Acts of 1975. The purpose of such a district is the recognition and protection of the architectural and historical characteristics which make an area unique.

Under Chapter 772, as amended, the Boston Landmarks Commission is the Study Committee for the potential historic districts in Boston. The Landmarks Commission requested that community advisors, consisting of study area residents, work together to evaluate the architectural and historic significance of the area, the potential boundaries of an historic district, and the standards and criteria for reviewing exterior changes within the proposed district to ensure its protection. The community advisors were assisted by Landmarks Commission staff.

The status of the Study Report was reported regularly at meetings of the Bay Village Association, Inc. In January of 1982, the tentative conclusions of the Study Report and the procedures of an historic district were the subject of a public meeting held by the Bay Village Association, Inc. Property owners, occupants and Association members in the area were invited. During the summer and fall of 1982, support for establishment of an historic district was solicited by means of signed petitions. In September, 1982, the Study Report and its recommendations were finalized.

A public hearing was held on December 7, 1982. Testimony was substantially in favor of establishment of an Historic District, although some opposition was voiced.

The Boston Landmarks Commission, at its regular business meetings, considered the expressed concerns and then voted on March 22, 1983 to transmit the Study Report, including the revised Ordinance, to the Mayor. The Boston Landmarks Commission respectfully requests that the Mayor recommend to the City Council that it approve the Ordinance establishing the Bay Village Historic District.

SUMMARY: STUDY REPORT RECOMMENDATIONS

The Bay Village Study Report concludes that Bay Village is architecturally significant as a smallscale, densely built enclave of row structures that have brick as the predominant building material. Individually, its major streets are homogeneous in style, general use, and visual character; these range from 1825 to 1899, and in style from Federal to late Victorian. A few streets display heterogeneity of scale and use with a number of adaptively re-used structures or 20th c. commercial structures in the Art Deco or Moderne style. Bay Village is historically significant as an area built and occupied by Boston's carpenter-builders and artisans including stairbuilders, masons, paperhangers and a variety of tradesmen and as the center of the movie industry in Boston for much of the 20th century.

Therefore, the Study Report recommends that the area roughly bounded by Piedmont, Charles Street South, Tremont, Marginal, Cortez, Berkeley, Isabella and Arlington Streets be established as the Bay Village Historic District.

The Study Report further recommends that a City of Boston ordinance be adopted establishing the Bay Village Historic District Commission and that members be appointed to review exterior changes to property within the district.

The Study Report further recommends that Standards and Criteria which have been prepared to guide future physical changes to property within the district to protect the architectural integrity and historical character of the area be adopted.

I. INTRODUCTION

1.1 History of Historic Districts

Historic district designation is designed to protect areas that exhibit a cohesion of architectural style and/or historic association. Walter Muir Whitehill, in With Heritage So Rich, writes:

A 1954 United States Supreme Court decision (Berman vs. Parker) ruled that a city has as much right to be beautiful as it has to be safe and clean. Such an assumption is basic to the present wider acceptance of the preservation of historic districts by architectural control as a legitimate function of government. Architectural control is the device used to prevent the construction of incompatible new buildings, or alterations to existing ones, that would detract from the esthetic values of an area in which a large proportion of the buildings were constructed during a significant architectural period or have important associations with the history of the community, state or nation.

The roots of this historic district movement are in the activities of southern cities, namely Charleston, South Carolina and New Orleans, Louisiana. In 1921, a constitutional amendment in Louisiana authorized the Commission Council of New Orleans to create the Vieux Carre Commission to oversee alteration to that section of the city. The commission was formally organized in 1937. In Charleston, legislation was passed in 1931 creating the "Old and Historic District of Charleston." Charleston was also the site of the first comprehensive citywide inventory of architecturally significant and historic sites.

Historic District activity began in Massachusetts in 1955 with a legislative act creating historic districts on Beacon Hill and Nantucket. The Back Bay Residential District was created in 1966, also by legislative act.

The Historic Districts Act, Chapter 40C of the General Laws of Massachusetts, adopted in 1960, serves as the enabling legislation by which municipalities create historic districts. To date, sixty-seven cities and towns in the Commonwealth have established historic districts either through Special Acts or under Chapter 40C, the Historic Districts Act.

1.2 Purpose of Historic Districts

Under Chapter 772, Acts of 1975, the Boston Landmarks Commission was established to identify and protect important architectural features within the City. The Landmarks statute specifies that under its procedures only landmarks, not districts, can be designated in the Downtown, Back Bay, Beacon Hill, North End and South Cove areas. However, as part of the statute, Chapter 40C was accepted by the City, and the Landmarks Commission, as one of its additional duties, became the Study Committee for any historic district proposed in the city.

The provisions of Chapter 40C enable the Historic District Commission to establish regulations to insure that, without prior approval, no changes be made to the exterior architectural features of buildings, structures, and sites visible from a public way within the designated district.

As stated in the Guidelines for Establishing Local Historic Districts, published by the Secretary of the Commonwealth, Massachusetts Historical Commission, the purpose of an historic district is:

1. To preserve and protect the distinctive characteristics of buildings and places significant in the history of the Commonwealth and its cities and towns;
2. To maintain and improve the settings of those buildings and places; and
3. To encourage new designs compatible with existing buildings in the district.

The Guidelines clearly state that areas proposed for historic district consideration need not be of national or state significance. The Massachusetts Historical Commission encourages cities and towns to establish districts to protect those areas which are significant to their local development.

1.3 Relation of Proposed District to the City of Boston

Bay Village is one of the few nineteenth century residential districts which remains intact in downtown Boston. Other residential areas dating from the last century, Beacon Hill, Back Bay, St. Botolph Street area and Bay State Road, are already protected by historic district or architectural conservation district designation. Bay Village, an urban residential community which retains its original fabric, also deserves protection as an historic district.

II. REVIEW OF ACTIVITIES OF STUDY COMMITTEE, METHODOLOGY AND PROPOSED BOUNDARY

2.1 Study Committee and Community Advisors

The Historical Committee of the Bay Village Neighborhood Association, Inc., met for the first time on December 15, 1975 to investigate the possibility of having Bay Village designated as an historic district. The Committee was established in response to a growing neighborhood concern over the impact of various commercial developments which were in the planning stage, chiefly Park Plaza. From its inception in 1825, Bay Village has been a small enclave of small houses. It was generally feared that monumental buildings along its perimeter might soon alter the village like character which has existed for over a century and a half.

On July 20, 1979, the Bay Village Neighborhood Association, Inc., (BVNA) wrote the Mayor stating its request to establish an historic district under Chapter 40 C. The Boston Landmarks Commission, as Study Committee for Chapter 40C districts, requested that community advisors assist the Commission in preparing the required report. A number of steps are required in the formulation of the report.

2.2 Methodology

One of the first steps undertaken by the Committee was to canvass absentee landlords as well as owners in residence. The response was uniformly favorable to the historic designation. The larger tenant population also expressed approval through neighborhood questionnaires and at general meetings of the BVNA.

Using a form supplied by the Massachusetts Historical Commission, the community advisors completed a survey of the Bay Village neighborhood. The process included visual inspection of all facades from public ways, photography of each building and streetscape, and research on selected occupants, construction dates, builders, and events in the area. Several residents volunteered to research the deeds of the houses in which they lived.

2.3 Description and Justification of Proposed Boundary

The resident committee examined potential boundaries for the proposed district. The inventory confirmed that Bay Village appears as an architecturally cohesive urban residential area. It is small in scale and is densely built up with row structures that have brick as the predominant building material. Some streets are homogeneous in style, use, and visual character (Melrose and Fayette in the Federal and Greek Revival styles; Isabella and Cortes in later Victorian styles). Some streets (Winchester, Piedmont, and Church) display heterogeneity with the characteristic residential types mixed with 20th century commercial structures. The boundaries as proposed (see attached Map II) include the streets that form this architecturally cohesive area and also generally conform to the area adopted by the Bay Village Neighborhood Association.

The proposed district is generally bounded by Piedmont, Charles Street South, Tremont, Marginal, Cortes, Berkeley, Isabella and Arlington Streets. The proposed district encompasses 190 parcels, including approximately 185 buildings. Of these, approximately 113 date from 1824 to 1860, and 47 date from 1861 to 1900. There are approximately 25 20th century buildings.

Excluded from the proposed district are the adjacent areas of recently developed hotel and apartment blocks, and a major structure already designated a Boston Landmark (The Armory of the First Corps Cadets).

2.4 Development of Regulatory Standards

An important step taken by the community advisors was the development of appropriate standards for the design review process. While completing the inventory, members became aware of the salient characteristics of the Bay Village structures, the divergent characteristics of certain streets, and the types of changes that have occurred. Drawing on these observations, and the standards used in other preservation districts, the committee drafted regulatory standards tailored to Bay Village.

2.5 Public Hearing

A public hearing was held on December 7, 1982 to allow Bay Village property owners and residents to review the Study Report and regulatory standards and to testify in favor of, or in opposition to, establishment of an Historic District.

On January 11, 1983 at a regular meeting of the Boston Landmarks Commission, the Commission voted to transmit the Study Report, with minor corrections, to the City Council.

At the request of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, that has jurisdiction over an Urban Renewal parcel within the historic district boundary, the Boston Landmarks Commission considered and then voted on March 22, 1983 to disclaim historic district review over initial development and construction of said urban renewal parcel.

2.6 Action

The Boston Landmarks Commission voted on March 22, 1983 to transmit the Study Report, including the revised Ordinance, to the Mayor. The Boston Landmarks Commission respectfully requests that the Mayor recommend to the City Council that it approve this Ordinance establishing the Bay Village Historic District.

III. JUSTIFICATION OF BAY VILLAGE HISTORIC DISTRICT

3.1 Reasons for Historic District

Just what benefits will an historic district in Bay Village provide for the neighborhood? Most importantly, it will limit the destruction and disintegration of the historical and architectural legacies of this notable section of Boston. The intactness of a 19th century neighborhood will be enjoyed by its future generations. A district will offer to residents and visitors alike a visual example of its historical and cultural heritage.

An historic district will afford its residents protection from decreasing land values which deterioration or neighborhood blight, created by demolition or inappropriate alterations of significant buildings, can cause. The district will establish controls aimed at preventing the intrusion of incongruous structures or rehabilitation that would detract from the aesthetic and historical values of the district.

These standards and criteria are intended to serve two purposes: first to inform property owners of the kinds of changes permitted in the district, and to guide the members of the Historic District Commission in deciding what proposed changes are permissible.

These standards apply only to proposed changes of exterior architectural features designed to be open to view from a public way, including all elevations intended to be seen on freestanding buildings. They are not retroactive, but apply only to changes proposed after the formal establishment of the district.

The intent of the standards and criteria for Bay Village is not to freeze the appearance of the district to a certain point of time but, instead, to guide inevitable changes to the buildings composing the district in order to make those changes sensitive to the architectural character of the area and to prevent intrusions of incompatible architectural elements.

In general, proposed changes which are easily reversed are far less serious than those which cannot be reversed.

In all cases, the design approach to a proposed change in a district should begin with the understanding that the overall character of a district is greater than the sum of its parts, and that a pattern, made up of each building, each landscape element and each detail, exists within a district. It is this aggregate character which is most important.

It is recognized that changes may be required for a variety of reasons, not all of which are under the complete control of the Commission or the owners. Building code conformance and safety requirements are primary examples of causes of such changes.

Historic district designation will not, however, curtail the use of the properties within the area as established by the Boston zoning code.

Finally, the establishment of a district will provide a solid base from which the District Commission can pursue the placement of the entire district on the National Register of Historic Places. Acknowledgement in the register provides recognition for the property and an opportunity for the owner to apply for matching grants, if available, for development projects. Listing on the National Register, or creation of an Historic District, could provide owners of depreciable real estate with rehabilitation tax incentives for the rehabilitation of historic buildings associated with the Economic Recovery Act of 1981, as amended.

3.2 Architectural and Historical Significance

To study Bay Village's origins, one must consider the original configuration of the City of Boston. When first incorporated in 1630, Boston consisted of the Shawmut peninsula. It was attached to the mainland by a narrow strip of land on which was Orange Street, now known as Washington Street. The Charles River was characterized by bogs and marshes which extended across Charles Street and over to the Fenway and Roxbury. The Bay Village area was mudflats caused by Back Bay tides. In 1825, a city ordinance was passed authorizing the construction of a dam to be built from Baldwin Mills to Fayette Street. Thus, as the water drained off, the land became usable for the construction of houses, which began in 1825.

The streets in Bay Village were laid out as follows: In 1824, Fayette, Jefferson and Piedmont Streets; in 1825, Melrose (originally Marion), Shawmut and Winchester (formerly South Cedar) Streets; in 1830, Knox Street; in 1833, Bay Street; in 1835, Church Street; and in 1838, Lyndeboro Place. In these early days the neighborhood, then known as the Bay Street District, ended at Arlington Street, where fishermen and boats could be found. Until an 1868 reclamation project, flooding of the area continued to be a problem.

Many early deeds included restrictions on height and construction materials. Some early real estate transactions specified that the houses be built of brick. These specifications resulted in the harmonious appearance of the neighborhood still evident today.

Early settlers in the area represented a variety of occupations, including cabinet makers, stairbuilders, carvers, blacksmiths, housewrights, bakers, printers, piano makers, sailmakers, ropemakers, and paperhangers.

The foremost builder in the area was Ephraim Marsh, who resided on Broadway (formerly Pleasant Street). Other carpenter/builders in the area were Presbury Coffin, Frederick Morong, Benjamin and Joshua Bosworth, James Marble and Samuel Blake, Jr. Many of these men also worked on the larger houses on Beacon Hill.

The Bay Village district is predominantly an intact early 19th century residential enclave. The typical Bay Village house is a two or three-story red brick rowhouse with a granite foundation. It is three bays wide and is not set back from the sidewalk. The entrance vestibule is recessed and panelled, and is located on the side of the front facade. The roof is slate and may have a single, a double, or a continuous dormer in a later addition. Fayette Street's architecture may be described as Federal, exemplified by curved arch entry openings, flared lintels and brick dental cornices. Houses on later streets (such as Melrose) show the transition to Greek Revival styles and have longer windows, an additional story, square entrance openings and simple brick cornices. There are occasional interruptions to these otherwise harmonious street-scapes such as Federal style frame Clapboard houses set end to street and four to five story brick structures, or carriage houses converted to dwellings.

On Winchester and Piedmont Streets particularly, the characteristic residential scale is mixed with 20th century commercial structures. Nevertheless, these buildings maintain the overall scale of the neighborhood; they are two stories high, brick but with a horizontal fenestration pattern typical of the Art Deco or Art Moderne style. Some of these structures were built for the movie distribution industry and have since been converted to other office use.

Two significant events, which occurred in the 19th century, had an impact on the lives of the Bay Village residents. In 1845, there was a destructive fire which spread from a carpenter's shop on Winchester Street. The fire was not contained until it consumed over twenty five dwellings, mainly of wood construction (on Winchester and Piedmont Streets). The second event took place in 1868 when the sewage from the newly-developed Back Bay began surfacing in the marshy base of the Church Street district. At this time the entire district, including some 450 dwellings, 24 stores and other buildings and streets, was raised 18 feet above mean low water.

An adjunct to the District is the Isabella-Cortes Streets area. This area dates from the latter part of the 19th century (Cortes Street, 1865 and 1885; and Isabella Street, 1885). However, it relates to Bay Village proper by the continued use of red brick, uniform heights of four stories including a mansard level, basic residential use and general retention of original Victorian architectural features.

N.B. For the definitive and considerably more extensive history of the area, consult Mary Van Meter's "Bay Village or the Church Street District, a survey of history and some of its buildings and inhabitants," Proceedings of the Bostonian Society, 1969.

IV. RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE STUDY COMMITTEE INCLUDING MEMBERSHIP OPTIONS

4.1 Recommendations

The Study Committee and its Community Advisors recommend, based on what has been established in the preceding sections of this report, that:

1. the Bay Village Historic District be established under ordinance by Chapter 40C of the General Laws, and Chapter 772 of the Acts of 1975, the boundaries be those indicated on Map II of this report, and the ordinance contained in Appendix C of this report be adopted and,
2. the Bay Village Historic District Commission be established under the same ordinance by Chapters 40C and 772 and that such Commission be comprised of five members and three alternates, the majority of whom should be residents of the proposed district. Staff services would be provided in the Environment Department. The proposed local ordinance stipulates membership, appointment, terms including initial terms, and residency requirements.

4.2 Options

The options for membership and administration for the proposed Bay Village Historic District are fairly limited. The most apparent one is a seven member, five alternate scheme. Because Bay Village is a small area, and because of the difficulty in assembling quorums, the proposed 5-3 format was considered most efficient and effective. In addition to the required requests for nominations from:

1. The Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities,
2. The Greater Boston Real Estate Board, and
3. The Boston Society of Architects,

the Study Committee considered a member from the resident community to be essential, and believed that a nominee from the Landmarks Commission would provide experience in preservation matters. It was also decided that one alternate should be a community resident and the other a member of the Landmarks Commission.

For the purposes of Chapter 268A of the General Laws, every member of the Commission, and every person who shall, on a part-time and consultative basis, perform any professional services for the commission, such as the services of architect, attorney, engineer, architectural historian, planner, environmentalist or expert in construction, finance, real estate or traffic, shall be deemed to be a special municipal employee.

The commission shall adopt by-laws which specify the standards and criteria included in the Bay Village Historic District Study Report. Amendments to criteria may be established by amendments to the by-laws of the commission.

Administration of Historic Districts

No building, or property, or structure within the Historic District shall be constructed, demolished, moved or altered in any way that affects exterior architectural features, and no building shall be moved into the Historic District unless the Commission shall first have issued a Certificate of Appropriateness, a Certificate of Hardship or a Certificate of Non-Applicability with respect to such construction, demolition, alteration or movement. The building commissioner shall not issue a permit within an Historic District unless one of the certificates noted above has first been issued by the Commission or the proposed improvement is exempted from these provisions by the following:

Exemptions to Review

The Authority of the Commission is not extended to the review of the following:

1. Temporary structures or signs, subject, however, to such conditions as to duration of use, location, lighting, removal and similar matters as the Commission may reasonably specify in the standards and criteria.
2. Decorative lighting fixtures within entryways.
3. Paint or stain of any color not on any masonry or brick surface.
4. Ordinary maintenance or repair of an exterior architectural feature which involves no change in design, material or outward appearance thereof.
5. Construction, reconstruction, alteration or demolition of any such feature which the building commissioner shall certify is required by the public safety because of an unsafe or dangerous condition.
6. Rear elevations except on free-standing buildings.
7. The Boston Redevelopment Authority shall administer the development of Urban Renewal Parcel R-7 in accordance with the September, 1980 Developers Kit (The Guidelines) for this parcel, whose guidelines are incorporated herein by reference. This exemption shall terminate upon completion of development, and the completed building and associated property shall then be subject to Commission jurisdiction in all respects

Applications for Certificates from Historic District Commission

Any person who is required to obtain a certificate from the commission shall file with the commission, an application for a Certificate of Appropriateness, a Certificate of Non-Applicability, or a Certificate of Hardship, as the case may be, in such form as the commission may reasonably determine, together with such plans, elevations, specifications, material and other information, including, in the case of demolition or removal, a statement of the proposed condition and appearance of the property thereafter, as may be reasonably deemed necessary by the commission to enable it to make a determination on the application.

Within eight days after the filing for a Certificate of Appropriateness, Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays excluded, the commission shall determine the properties materially affected by the application. Unless a public hearing on such application is waived in writing by all persons entitled to a notice, the commission shall require its secretary to give, by mail, reasonable notice of a public hearing before the commission on such application to the applicant, the owners of all property determined by the commission to be materially affected as they appear on the most recent real estate tax list, and any persons filing a written request for notice of hearings, such requests to be renewed yearly in December.

The Commission, as soon as may be convenient following such public hearing, or the waiver thereof, but within thirty days, Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays excluded, after the filing of the application for the Certificate of Appropriateness, or within such further time as the applicant may in writing allow, shall determine whether or not the construction, reconstruction, alteration, or demolition of the exterior architectural feature is consistent with the purpose of this Ordinance and whether, notwithstanding that it may be inappropriate owing to conditions especially affecting the structure involved but not affecting the historic Bay Village district generally, failure to issue a Certificate of Appropriateness will involve a substantial hardship to the applicant and such a certificate may be issued without substantial detriment to the public welfare and without substantial derogation from the intent and purposes of this Ordinance.

In passing upon appropriateness, the commission shall consider, in addition to other pertinent factors as specified in the standards and criteria section of the By-Laws, the historical and architectural value and significance, architectural style, general design, arrangement, texture and material of the exterior architectural feature involved and the relationship thereof to the exterior architectural features of other structures in the immediate neighborhood.

If the commission determines that a Certificate of Appropriateness should be granted, the secretary of the commission shall issue to the applicant a Certificate of Appropriateness. If the commission fails to make a determination within the time hereinafter prescribed, the secretary of the commission shall issue to the applicant a Certificate of Hardship. If the commission determines that a certificate not be issued, then the commission shall include in its records the reasons for such determination and any recommendations it may have. The secretary shall then, by mail, give notice of such determination to the applicant and to every person filing a written request for such notice, enclosing with it an attested copy of the reasons and recommendations as contained in the records of the commission.

Every person about to apply to the Building Commissioner for a permit to construct any structure in the Historic District or to reconstruct, alter or demolish any structure now or hereafter in said district shall deposit with the secretary of the commission his application for such permit together with such plans, specifications and other material as the commission may from time to time prescribe. Within eight days thereafter, Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays excluded, the commission shall consider such application, plans, specifications and other material and determine whether any exterior architectural feature is involved. If it is so determined that no exterior architectural feature is involved, the secretary of the commission shall endorse on the application a Certificate of Non-Applicability and return the application, plans, specifications and other material to the applicant.

Appeals

Under the provisions of the General Laws, Chapter 40C, Section 12A, any applicant aggrieved by a determination of the commission, may, within twenty days after the filing of the notice of such determination or such finding with the City Clerk, appeal to the Superior Court sitting in equity for Suffolk County. The court shall hear all pertinent evidence and shall annul the determination of the commission if it finds the decision of the commission to be unsupported by the evidence, or to exceed the authority of the commission, or may remand the case for further action by the commission, or make such other decree as justice and equity may require. The remedy provided by this section shall be exclusive; but the parties shall have all rights of appeal and exception as in other equity cases. Costs shall not be allowed against the commission unless it shall appear to the court that the commission acted with gross negligence, in bad faith or with malice in the matter from which the appeal was taken. Costs shall not be allowed against the party appealing from such determination of the commission unless it shall appear to the court that the appellant acted in bad faith or with malice in making the appeal to the court.

Enforcement

Whoever, without the certificate required by and effective in accordance with this act, shall undertake any construction, reconstruction, restoration, exterior execution, exterior replacement or alteration or demolition with respect to any exterior architectural feature in Bay Village Historic District shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, and whoever, after having received from the commissioner appropriate notice to desist, shall, in violation of this act, permit any exterior architectural feature in the historic district to continue to exist shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars. A separate offense shall occur every day during any portion of which any such violation shall transpire.
